AUTHOR BIOGRAPHY

The Reverend Wayne A. Ewing, PhD

Episcopal Priest · Pastoral Counselor · Award-Winning Author

Wayne Ewing served as his spouse's 24/7 dementia care partner during her five year journey into and through the land of forgetfulness. His spouse, the late Ann Margaret Wentz Ewing, PhD, was a high profile, pioneering feminist therapist in Denver, Colorado, and active in the Denver business women's community and organization. She was diagnosed with Early Onset Dementia, Alzheimer's Type, at age 55.

Wayne is a retired Episcopal priest, pastoral counselor, and academic, having taught at colleges, universities, and seminaries here and abroad. He is currently a staff writer and columnist with the award winning Wet Mountain Tribune, a 134 year old weekly, independently owned newspaper serving Custer County, Colorado.

His meditative writings, Tears in God's Bottle and In the Land of Forgetfulness, quietly and conversationally reflect on the spiritual dimensions of dementia care.

Tears in God's Bottle earned multiple awards upon publication: Book of the Year, Religion, Second Place, Foreword Magazine; Finalist, Benjamin Franklin Award; GLYPH Awards for Best Book in Religion and Inspirational/Spirituality categories, and Best First Book by a New Publisher; Clara Award. To date, In the Land of Forgetfulness has placed second in the Colorado Author's League Adult Non-Fiction category, and was a Finalist in the Book Excellence Awards. Currently a featured book in the Adelaide Adventure Seekers, In the Land of Forgetfulness will be listed in the 2027 Alzheimer's Disease Book Club Community Reading Challenge.

Wayne is grateful that these meditations are finding their way into the hands of those who need them, the care partners of their Beloved's journey into the land of forgetfulness.
